Letter Hunt in downtown Naperville

You can find all these letters on signs on Jackson between Washington and Webster Streets.

Looking at and talking about letters is a great way for preschoolers to get ready to read.
Here’s the key to our letter hunt. In just two blocks of downtown Naperville, you can find the whole alphabet.

Practicing recognizing letters on signs, in books, and on products like shampoo bottles is great for getting kids ready to read. It helps with alphabet learning and learning the idea that the print we see all around us is words and reading is the way we understand them.

If you had fun on this letter hunt, why not have an alphabet day? Challenge your preschooler to find the whole alphabet in one day and check off each letter as you go.
